Mrs. (Dr.) Freeze returned from a visit to Montana.

Mrs. Florence Ulrich is taking a business course in Calgary.

The eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Groves has been ill but is improving.

A. W. Jopling left for Cootts on Wednesday where he will meet Mrs. T. R. Jopling's sister, en route from North Dakota.

F. Blachly and Jas. Burnett who have been here for some time looking after farm interests, left for Vancouver on Monday.

Mrs. Grey, Mrs. Root and Mrs. Hammer left this week for Osakis, Wisconsin, where they will visit old time friends and relatives.

The district nurse was here for the baby clinic on Tuesday, information as to the event being postponed having failed to reach her.

J. N. Beaubier has had his farm residence overhauled and plastered and it is now a handsome adjunct to the appearance of his farm.

Mrs. A. McKibbin, Miss Kathleen Watkins and Miss Ramsey of Carbon spent the week end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Watkins.

J. M. Moffatt has completed a cement sidewalk on his premises that adds to general appearance as well as convenience. Alex Rinaldi was the contractor.

The postponed Harvest Dance under the auspices of the Golden Rule W. L. will be held on Tuesday, October 8th. All who attend are promised a real swell time, so don't miss it.

There are still a few subscribers for Community Hall shares who have not completed payment for same. Now that the hall is completed the directors would appreciate very much if immediate response was made to a request for payment. They need the money.

In celebration of the Ruggles—Steves wedding of last week a dance was given on Saturday night in Yetwood. A large number of friends were present all sincere in extending best wishes for the future to this deservedly popular young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Castor returned from an extended visit to Toronto and other points in the East recently. While they had a splendid trip in every way, Mrs. Castor's health has not been of the best since their return, and they may go to the coast for the winter.

Louis Warren has the basement dug for a handsome residence 20x40 feet, on his farm one mile southwest of town. When completed it will be up-to-date and modern in every respect. Alex Rinaldi is doing the cement work in connection with the basement.

Depreciating the marking of castan items below cost to entice buyers, W. T. Grant of New York, head of a chain of 200 stores, gave among other reasons for discontinuing the practice: "Have you ever thought how insignificant such an advantage may be to a large organization, and yet how little it may be to some little fellow who is dependent upon his line for the selling of the very goods?" Here's a "chain" that is evidently strengthened with a golden rule link. U.S. Monitor.

Thanksgiving and Memorial Day Nov. 11th

Monday, November 11th, has been proclaimed Thanksgiving Day and Armistice Day. There has been a movement this year to separate these two days, both being regarded of sufficient importance to demand recognition individually. It is doubtful, however, if this demand is more than local in strength. Too numerous holidays are not desirable and with two events of such similar character their uniting seems from here to be perfectly satisfactory. Neither of the days loses any of its significance because of a joint celebration.

Unemployment Developing

At some points in the province unemployment is already becoming a serious problem. Employment during the harvest months has been for a much shorter period than usual, wages were lower and a very considerable change occurred in the number of men employed owing to the increased use of labor saving machinery, notably combines. Without any excursions from Eastern Canada labor was plentiful, in fact there was nearly a surplus number of men available. The future does not seem to hold out hopes of anything but a continued decrease in the number of men used on the farms, while industrial growth is not absorbing the labor thus made available. Undoubtedly there will be a big problem to face in the near future in regard to employment for the working man.

Auction Sale

Tuesday, Oct. 8

Chal. Matlock is holding an auction sale on Tuesday, Oct. 8th, at his farm four miles north and eight miles east of Champion. The offerings will include twenty-two horses and a complete line of farm implements. See advt. elsewhere in this issue.

D. D. Farmer Buys Hoskins' Hardware

Business circles have been stirred during the week by the transfer of the W. C. Hoskins' hardware business to D. D. Farmer, of Trochu. Mr. Hoskins has been here over ten years and has taken an interest in all public matters, having been chairman of the school board for some ten years, and also an officer of the United Church. Mrs. Hoskins has also been active in church and lodge matters so that a real loss is being sustained by their removal from the district. Mr. Farmer is a thoroughly experienced hardware man and will undoubtedly be an acquisition as a citizen. Everyone will wish him success in his new venture.

Canada is holding her wheat for higher prices. The individual frequently practices this method of getting a better price, but it is seldom a nation indulges in the practice. At the present time wheat is in a higher price in Canada than in any other country, considering freight rates, as foreign nations are buying their wheat elsewhere because it is cheap. Inland elevators and terminals are full. Canadian wheat is waiting for purchasers. Brazil tried something like this with coffee and failed. Let us hope the Canadian venture will be more fortunate. At any rate there is no division of opinion with regard to the matter as far as the growers are concerned.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

And now the salesmen with stocks of various kinds, books, magazines, etc., are in evidence every day, and the amount they sell must be surprising to themselves. On the whole this is about the best buying country to be found anywhere, especially after a good harvest.

It is said that cows respond to radio music by an increased flow of milk. If this is the case someone should establish a herd near the radio dealers' premises in town. There is enough music being wasted to supply the whole country with milk, properly rationed out to the cows.

The absence of straw stacks from the landscape is very noticeable this fall. Of course the light straw crop is partly responsible, but the combine is really the big factor in the change which robs the landscape of what was not so particularly an attractive feature, but always seemed to carry the impression of prosperity and plenty. With the big threshing crews the rows of big straw stacks promise to be a thing of the past in the very near future.

Despite some heavy frosts the weather this fall has been almost ideal and present indications are for a continuation of days that leave nothing to hope for in the way of comfort and pleasure. There would have to be something seriously wrong with the person who did not appreciate our Indian summer weather.

The quickness with which harvesting and the delivery of the grain to the elevators was accomplished this year seems to have left a vacuum for the month of October. True, there is still a considerable quantity of grain stored on the farms, but the moving of this will come a long ways from filling the gap. We are ready for winter altogether too soon.

The lack of small ponds of water through the country has had rather a depressing effect on duck hunting. The larger lakes are fairly well populated with the quackers, but little game shooting is available as compared with the past few years when water was more plentiful. However, the Hungarian partridge are very much in evidence and will partly compensate the sportsman for the shortage of duck shooting.

While the farmers are making rapid strides in the way of co-operation, the same cannot be said of the retail men in the country. They seem to be more individualistic than they were years ago. The wholesaler introduces co-operative shipments where he is able to do so, but the retailer in many instances will not sell goods if his competitors are able to get them, and to purchase co-operatively in any line of merchandise is avoided rather than sought.

A considerable amount of the new territory being opened up in the Peace River country has a big water problem on hand. Recently Dr. Rutherford, of the University of Alberta, made a study of the situation and recommends the drilling of wells to a depth of 800 feet as a solution of the difficulty. That is a mighty big undertaking for an individual farmer and it would appear that community wells would have to be drilled.

To Investigate Tar Deposits At Fort McMurray

President Beatty and the directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway included Fort McMurray in their recent visit to Alberta and a party of C.P. and C.N. engineers are being sent into that territory to estimate the value of the tar sands found there and the possibility of making them a commercial asset both to the railroads and the province at large. If these deposits could be utilized on Alberta roads to advantage it would mean great deal both in good roads and also an outlet for some of the surplus labor that threatens.

Weeds Less Prominent

While there is still plenty of room for improvement in the weed situation, there has been a remarkable change for the better during the past decade. Better farming methods have prevailed to a great extent over what was a very dangerous situation in the early twenties. The roadides still continue to be one of the worst breeding places for noxious weeds and one of the next steps taken to control them should be attention to the road allowances. The improvement to appearances would be well worth the trouble of keeping the weeds in control.

China Has Oldest Civilization.

A recent campaign in American universities started with the purpose of teaching people more about China, discloses the facts up to the year 1750 more than half of all the books in existence were Chinese, and that even in 1850 China had more recorded literature than any other nation. For up-to-date facts—the world's largest publishing house today is Chinese, and there is a Chinese encyclopedia containing 11,000 volumes. The campaign seems more than worth while when through it people may become better acquainted with a culture which has flourished for thirty centuries in a country which holds honor to all the people in the world.—Christian Science Monitor.

Canadians May Be Canadians in Next Census

When the next census of Canada is taken people will be able to describe themselves as "Canadians," and this will include practically every resident who has achieved Canadianism by birth or naturalization. This feature of the new census will be acceptable to long time Canadians particularly, who could not see any sense in describing themselves as English or French or any of the various other European nationalities when their family had lived in Canada for generations and frequently had been so mixed in nationality as to be described satisfactorily only by the word "Canadian."

Clifton's Roadwork Was Extensive

In the municipal district of Clifton road work has been prosecuted with vigor and efficiency ever since last spring's seedling operations were finished. All the main highways have been put in good condition by standard grading. Not content the enterprising councillors graded the by-ways and blind ways in every direction, even trails that have been unused for a quarter of a century. When the rains of autumn came, lugo the main grades, where, oh where shall we look for the friendly and inviting prairie trails of yore? "Enough is as good as a feast" was brought two-fold to the obdurate ears of our municipal fathers.

Mysteries Are Wrapped Up In Strange Disappearances Of Many Deep Sea Vessels

Denmark has abandoned its hopeless long search for a clue to the fate of the full-rigged clipper training ship "Copenhagen" with sixty crewmen aboard, seen for the last time in the throes of her struggle with a heavy gale, a long while in the South Atlantic, during the seven months of weary exploration that has intervened, not so much as a spar, a lifeboat or a piece floating wreckage has rewarded the Danish government who undertook the quest for the missing vessel, the mystery that envelops the Copenhagen closely resembles that attending the disappearance of the United States collier "Cyclops," and it has prompted the New York Sun to recall other tragedies of the sea that also remain unsolved.

In the latter part of 1923 an American steamer came upon the schooner "Mary Cornish" in mid-Pacific. Nothing indicated that she had been lost at sea in a tempestuous weather or that it had been swept by a high sea. Bloodstains were found on a newspaper in the cabin, but no evidence of a struggle; there was no sign of life aboard and no boats were missing. What had occurred aboard the craft will, in all probability, never be known. Two years before this the captain of the French sailing ship "Eugene Gallieni" in running mate, found a small wooden vessel embedded in an iceberg. The craft was firmly fixed in a cleft of the ice mass about twelve feet above the water's edge, and with the exception of the hull being torn and crushed intact, there was no sign of life aboard, and all the boats were in place. He reported the circumstance and the ship was tentatively identified as one long reported missing, but no one could offer an explanation of its loss.

A French steamer fell upon a large junk in the China Sea, which, upon investigation, the master found was deserted. In the junk he same up with a man who had a considerable sum of money. The only explanation was offered by a Chinese member of the crew; who said that it was a craft belonging to a band of pirates who had fed the master in fear that if he demanded a ransom he would be disengaged.

As strange a discovery was reported by the captain of a Dutch liner plying among the West Indies and along the South American coast. He had brought a tramp steamer destitute of life except a starving dog. He found evidence that the crew had only shortly before abandoned the vessel. His theory was that when the ship became becalmed the men taken to a small sail in the hope of towing the vessel, but had been swept away by a strong current. The steamer had been listed among missing ships, but in this case, too, only conjecture was left regarding the fate of its crew.

Not always did Old Man Sea leave so much of a clue to his mysteries. It is because he restored these missing ships to human ken that another chapter could be written of their disappearance.

A Strange Coincidence

Peter Archer, a six-year-old boy, of Hull, England, who was knocked down by a motor omnibus and seriously injured, was being taken in an ambulance to the Royal Infirmary, when the ambulance was stopped for a man who had been injured at work. He proved to be the injured boy's father.

Mrs. Brown eyed the joint critically.

"Tell your master," she said to the butcher's boy, "that I shall buy my meat elsewhere if he doesn't correct the error of his 'weighs'."

"Have you ever heard of mountaineering that fall?"

"No, and don't expect I ever shall!"—Lustige Sachen, Leipzig.

To Assist Farmers

Saskatchewan Farmers In Dried Out Areas May Import Fodder Free Of Transportation Costs

Farmers in the drought-affected areas of Saskatchewan, forced by circumstances to import fodder for their live stock, will be able to do so free of all costs, under a bill introduced in the legislature by the Government of Saskatchewan on the one hand, and the two railway companies on the other. Freight charges on fodder supplies into, and out of, the provinces will be borne by the government and the railway companies. Under the arrangement, the provincial government undertakes to pay the freight charges while the government and the railway companies will be responsible for the revenue 50 per cent, according to Frank W. Thompson, chairman of the Canadian Freight Association.

New Varieties Of

Rust-Resisting Wheat

But Production Not Yet Sufficient For Success

Two or three varieties of wheat which will resist rust have been developed by the Department of Agriculture, it was stated by Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, in the Senate yesterday. The article was from the pen of Duncan Marshall, former minister of agriculture in Alberta, who is now a member of their staff.

There is a lesson in our experience with wheat growing, in that we can develop good marketing facilities by establishing proper and by establishing good marketing facilities we have put our wheat beyond the range of competition. Given proper leadership by Dominion and provincial departments of agriculture, our wheat producers could do the same thing.

To Exterminate Insects

Electric Light Rays Are Now Used With Good Effect

Light rays and electricity are being used in the extermination of insects. Electric light traps containing a lamp set directly over a pan of water upon which a covering of oil has been poured, entice the insect, who invariably falls into the film of oil and is unable to arise.

An electrically controlled stable door has proved feasible. The screen is charged with high voltage static, deadly to pests but harmless to humans.

Canada's Dairy Industry

Canadians Are Eating More Butter Than Ever Before

Dairying is a native, nourishing business in Canada right now. Canadians are eating more butter than ever before. We are large consumers of this product. In 1928 we consumed 20 million pounds per capita in this country as against about 18 pounds per capita in the United States. This is accounted for by the elimination of oleo-margarine from our market. Also our butter is a better butter and it reduces a little used.

There is real competition our dairyman face is in New Zealand butter, which is imported during the winter months, and in the United States, in imported quantities. Canadian producers find that their storage product must compete against the fresh New Zealand product and the competition is intense. But the effect of the importation has been minimized.

In chess, Canada is building up a commanding position throughout the world. This is due chiefly to the fact that Canadian Cheddar Cheese is of high quality and sells at a premium over foreign made and other imported cheeses. This fact was referred to in a recent article in the Canadian Business Review, published by Cockfield, Brown & Co., advertising agents for the Canadian Ministry of Agriculture. The article was from the pen of Duncan Marshall, former minister of agriculture in Alberta, who is now a member of their staff.

There is a lesson in our experience with cheese production, in that we can develop good marketing facilities by establishing proper and by establishing good marketing facilities we have put our cheese beyond the range of competition. Rambouillet Sheep

Considered To Be The Best Breed For The Beginner To Raise

Although not well known in the province of Manitoba, the Rambouillet breed of sheep enjoys a wider distribution in the United States than almost any other breed. They possess some very desirable characteristics, in that they are relatively hardy, and from most diseases are affected sheep.

They have harvested a better crop than any other breed, and when raised on a high plane of grain, will yield higher prices from their herd.

On the Pacific Coast, in particular, the development of the Orient is being closely followed, and there is also a realization of the fact that Canada is a sheep country, and will have a greater degree of success in this regard.

The Newspaper Guide

Advertisements Are To Shoppers
What Time-Table Is To Traveller

The newspaper which carries a good number of advertisements is the shopper what the time-table is to the traveller and the published guide to the tourist. Busy people start to study these advertisements in the hope of saving time, and where they start happening, they know where they are going. In fact, business places are points of interest to all tourists, and the non-advertiser puts himself outside the pale so far as strangers are concerned.

Germany Planning World Plane Lines

Company Aims For Regular Flying Boat Service Over Atlantic In Two Years

A gigantic network of air lines which will cover the entire world is being planned by Lufthansa, Germany's most important air company. The plans are being worked out by Otto Meissner, who has given up his post as head of Lufthansa to devote himself to founding an international company, which promises within two years to open regular air lines between Europe and the United States.

Working jointly with the Hamburg-American steamship line, preliminaries have been completed. The details of the new company are still being worked out, but the approximate direction of developments has been mapped out.

"Not only is the world's interest concentrated in air travel, but in all commercial the best technical experts are working on our details," said Herr Merckel. "The experimental stage is behind us and the goal is clear. We have fine 'planes' especially in America, excellent motors, engines, propellers, reliable and dependable instruments which will result in an even higher standard soon."

New Invention To Help Catch Hit-and-Run Driver

A device to catch "hit-and-run" drivers of automobiles has been made by a Berlin inventor named Rudolf Hofmann. The mechanism is described as "an automatic traffic protection."

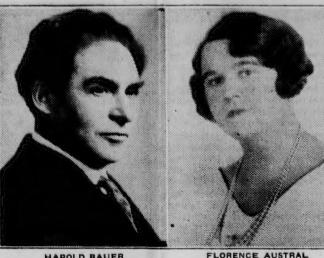

It is adjusted under the chassis of an automobile and at the instant of any impact automatically raises a white plate with a winding red light above the car's license plate. It also registers the automobile's speed.

RUSSIAN GRAIN WILL NOT AFFECT CANADA'S TRADE

Ottawa.—Canada's wheat trade would not be imperilled by a resumption of trade relations with Russia by the Canadian Government in view of the fact that Britain has been for some years at least right. Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery, secretary of state for the dominions in Baldwin cabinet, said on his arrival here.

"In the present disorganized condition of Russia under the Bolshevik regime, it is highly improbable," Mr. Amery said, "that there will be surplus wheat to export for some years to come. The situation is such that one cannot be sure enough for his own needs." Accordingly Russian wheat would not constitute a competitive factor in the British market. Just how imminent was the possibility of a resumption of trade relations between Great Britain and Russia, Mr. Amery could not say.

Grant Priority To

Dominion Taxes

Provincial Claim In Bankruptcy Is Second Supreme Court

Ottawa, Ont.—The Supreme Court of Canada, in a judgment handed down, held that claims for Dominion taxes had priority over claims for provincial taxes. This action was taken on behalf of the attorney-general of Canada and opposed on behalf of the attorney-general of Quebec.

The action arose out of a bankruptcy matter. Both the Dominion Government and the Quebec authorities had a claim against the bankrupt for taxes. There was not sufficient to pay both claims in full. It then became a question as to which claim took priority.

The trustee in bankruptcy, in his dividend sheet, gave priority to the claim of the Dominion and in that he was sustained by the trial judge, Mr. Justice G. H. French held. Mr. Justice Guerin dissenting, that both claims should rank concurrently. From that decision the Dominion appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Vancouver—Grain in storage in Vancouver elevators has reached a total of 7,285,000 bushels, a figure more than five times greater than the capacity for 1925, according to a statement issued by the merchants' exchange.

Ship bookings for wheat, already well removed during the month of made, saw that 1,026,933 bushels October, however.

Famous Film Missing

London, Eng.—It has been announced that the famous war film, "The Battle of the Somme," is missing in the possession of Dr. Gresham Miskick, who, as an army staff photographer, was in charge of it. It was while he was ill that the picture was removed for safety and now it cannot be discovered. The film was one of the most historic in the world.

Favors Canadian Flag

Nanaimo, B.C.—After debating for almost an hour, whether or not Canada should have its own flag of its own, the British Columbia School Trustees' Association decided that she had not, and that the proper authorities should be informed that the association favored distinctive emblem.

There are only about 40,000 Englishmen in the entire Arctic.

The United States now has more than 10,000 miles of lighted airways.

Will Start In December

Preparations Almost Completed For Western Air Mail Service

Ottawa, Ont.—The western air mail service will be inaugurated early in December and the tentative date for the first flight has been set for the second week of the month.

The announcement follows the statement of the Department of National Defence that the radio and light beacons and the emergency landing fields will be installed and the Post Office department is fully prepared to put on the service at that date, and the Western Canada Airways, it is understood, have completed preparation and should begin the flying end of the service on short notice.

The bi-weekly air mail service from Edmonton north along the Mackenzie River began earlier than the main service service across the prairie provinces. This northern service will commence as soon as the winter season sets in and the planes can use skids with safety.

New Airway Mapped

London To Capetown Is Shortest In World

London, England.—The longest airway in the world—an 8,000-mile route from London to the Cape—is to be inaugurated by the Imperial Airways early next year.

It is one of the first 20,000-mile serial routes of Africa, made by Sir Alan and Lady Cobham in their big Short Rolls-Royce flying boat a route through the heart of tropical Africa, passing over Rhodesia, South Africa and the Suez Canal.

Agreements have been made with the various governments concerned for supporting the air line and preparations are now being completed for its opening. Passengers and mail will be loaded into the flying boat in a giant triple-screw Armstrong-Whitworth air liner, and will arrive in Capetown nine days later, having flown by a combination of big air liners and all-metal flying boats.

Reparations Bank

Shunned By League

Committee Withdraws Resolution To Establish National Bank

The League of Nations will not seek for the present, to establish close relationship between itself and the international reparations bank provided by the Young plan.

In this class of case, the League of Nations has not concerned directly with the reparations plan, but it deals with economic questions.

But its action, Norway, Denmark, in particular, have been asked to help to gain half part of their purpose.

Their move was interpreted in some quarters as a signal by the countries not concerned directly with the reparations plan that they need not be greatly pleased if the proposed bank seeks to assume dominant a function in the economic life of Europe.

English Mine Owners Consider Question For Canadian Trade

London, Eng.—A dozen large coal mining companies, varying in size throughout the country met Mr. Hon. J. H. Thomas, at the treasury, to discuss the question of prices of coal for the Canadian trade. The minister for employment who has just returned from China, pointed out that the growth of the coal export trade of the possibilities of the Dominion for British exporters. It was stated the deputation was not officially representing the mining association of Great Britain, but it was noted that Evans Williams, president of the mining association and W. Lee, its secretary, were among those present. No statement was issued immediately.

Denies Dirigibles Are Obsolete

London, Eng.—Emphatic denial of the statement in London newspapers that the dirigible was under construction for the British Government—the R-100 and the R-101—was obsolete, was made by Commander Sir Charles Burney, head of the Airship Guarantee Company which is building the R-100.

Birds Lured To Death

Toronto—Lured by the brilliance of the lighthouses at Long Point, on Lake Erie, the birds of prey, which song song birds migrate to winter climes for the winter, met death recently. Flying through a fog the birds were attracted by the bright light and dashed to death against the walls of the lighthouses.

Issue Interesting Report

Grain Commissioners Publish Baking Tests Of Wheat Flour

Winnipeg, Manitoba.—The baking tests of wheat flour, higher protein content; lower water absorption of the flour and excellent baking quality of a preliminary report on the milling and baking characteristics of western Canadian 1928 wheat crop, issued by Dr. F. J. Birchard, chief chemist to the Board of Grain Commissioners for Canada.

Milling and baking test conducted at the Dominion Grain Research Laboratory, in Winnipeg, indicate that, on the whole, the milling yield was good, but the baking quality grade for grain is not as good as is not superior to that of last year, states Dr. Birchard, in the report.

The effect of frost and immaturity is not of much consideration as was the case with last year's production.

What is sound and mature, but each grade contains an increasing number of undeveloped kernels and consequently the weight per measured bushel would appear to be the chief factor in determining the grade.

Colony For Doukhobors

Two Hundred and Fifty Members Of Sect Transferred From Jail To Colony In B.C.

Nelson, B.C.—Some 250 Doukhobor men, women and children who have been confined to the provincial jail at Nelson, have been transported by the provincial police to the Rio Rico.

Porto Rico is a former Christian community under camp which is situated some 15 miles south of Nelson. Last Friday when these Doukhobors were camped on the outskirts of the town, Peter J. Ross offered this old camp site to the Doukhobors as a permanent habitat.

Starting early in the morning trucks and horse-drawn carts loaded the prisoners from the jail at Nelson until 4 p.m., when all the Doukhobors had been safely landed. Each bus in addition to the prisoners, carried a couple of depots to preserve order and refreshments. This measure was necessary.

When all had arrived at the camp it was noticeable that many of the Doukhobors directly started to pick out comfortable quarters from among the camp buildings.

The majority of the buildings at the camp are windowless and doorless, and the more industries of the Doukhobors began to repair their houses to protect them against the cold nights that are setting in.

Balloon Found Unmanned

Believed To Be One Piloted By French Flier

Paris.—A tragedy of the air was indicated as a balloon without passengers floated to the ground near Koenigsberg, East Prussia.

The Aero Club of France was advised the balloon carried the club's flag, and that blood spots were found on the torn basket. An altimeter registering 5,000 meters (about 16,000 feet) was found by peasants nearby.

It was believed the balloon was one in which Pilot Nugent left St. Cloud, near Paris, to compete in the Aumont-Thivierge Cup race. The place where the bag was found is 500 miles from Paris.

Ottawa.—Initiation of investigations based on ten or more new applications for tariff relief has been set.

Meetings of the tariff advisory board which will open on Tuesday, October 29, Chinaware, glassware, linens and wall papers are among the commodities that will come under review at both sides, that the question should be submitted to the people in the form of a referendum.

Edison's Pupil Visits Canada

Walter Huston, Seattle boy who won the special prize donated by Robert Edison, for research and inventive potentialities, was a visitor to Canada recently, when he took Canadian Pacific coast steamship "Princess Marguerite" on a round trip from his home city to Victoria and Vancouver. Huston who is likely to become a second Edison, will devote his life to scientific research, he says, following the example of his famous friend and mentor.

NON-PREFERRED ENTRY RECEIVES FURTHER CUT

Ottawa.—The number of farm laborers which transportation companies made will be permitted to bring into Canada from non-preferred countries of Europe will for next year be limited to 25,000.

The present provision to encourage emigration from the British Isles will be continued including the two previously unassisted passages.

Representatives of the Canadian Pacific Railway and steamships, the Canadian National, the Hudson's Bay Company, and several ocean shipping companies recently spent a day in Ottawa in conference with Hon. Robert Forke and officials of the immigration department, laying plans for next year's movement.

Although the transportation companies had hoped for greater scope in bringing out farm laborers, the decision of the ministry seemed to have been fairly

A year ago in order to reduce the influx of immigrants from Central Europe, the number of farm laborers which were admitted from non-preferred countries was limited to 25,000.

This resulted in even less grain being imported, the result being that many more men were needed to bring in the grain.

The majority of the buildings at the camp are windowless and doorless, and the more industries of the Doukhobors began to repair their houses to protect them against the cold nights that are setting in.

At the conclusion of the conference the following statement was issued by the department:

"It was agreed that British immigration to Canada should receive every possible encouragement. A renewal of the assisted passage agreement for certain classes of British immigrants, which expires at the end of next year, was recommended. These classes include families for land settlement, houseworkers, and juvenile immigrants moved under provincial government or recognized societies and pieces."

No Canadian Race

But Bureau Of Statistics Accepts "Nationality—Canadian"

Ottawa.—There is a Canadian nationality but no Canadian race, and any government bill filled with nationality as "Canadian" is accepted as it was learned on the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Complaint was made in Toronto of a father who three times entered his name as Canadian on his passport, returning, Ottawa being blamed.

It is pointed out here that the vital statistics forms are made to the provincial authorities and not to the Canadian government.

If the form was returned because the new baby was termed Canadian, it must have been returned by the provincial authorities. The Bureau of Statistics accepts "Nationality—Canadian" but also seeks racial origin which has nothing to do with nationality!!!

GRAN EMBARGO IS REQUIRED TO EASE CONGESTION

Winnipeg, Dec. 1.—Serious congestion in the lake head's mammoth grain elevators brought suggestions that the placing of embargoes on western grain shipments appeared to be the only remedy to the situation.

Fort William and Port Arthur terminals, with a storage capacity of 80,000,000 bushels today are housing practically 70,000,000 bushels of grain, silos and elevators a comparatively small storage space through which will extend over two weeks.

Lack of demand for Canadian grain in the world markets and the resulting congestion at Montreal, is responsible for the situation at the lake head.

Similar situations are existing at the lake head terminals, and the port authorities have intimated that the placing of an embargo probably will be necessary.

E. B. Rawley, chairman of the board of grain commissioners, commenting on the situation, said an embargo seemed to be the only remedy.

A similar situation arises every year in the grain elevator industry. His indication, however, that last year at this time the shortage of cars to handle the heavy prairie crop had itself acted in the nature of an embargo, was startling.

This season, with sufficient cars available to move the wheat east of Port Arthur and Fort William, elevators are reported plugged almost to capacity, while harbor conditions do not point to an early rush east of lake boats.

Exhibiting Canadian Pictures

Canadian Anomalies

Following the close of the Great War by the signing of the Armistice, Canada demanded and was accorded a place of equality with other nations of the world at the Peace Conference, and with the formation of the League of Nations, Canada entered that League on exactly the same terms as all other nations. That is to say, Canada was recognized as a nation. And in signing the League Covenant, Canada accepted the responsibilities of a nation.

At the last Imperial Conference, in London, with all the self-governing Dominions represented, Canada was given a seat at the table, and a formal declaration was adopted setting forth that Canada and the other self-governing Dominions were fully autonomous nations within the British Commonwealth of Nations, possessing exact equality with Great Britain.

As a logical outcome of these declarations, Canada has established her own legation and embassy foreign countries, and has her own ministers and in turn these ministers have come to sit at Ottawa in the Canadian delegation. Canada has direct representation at Washington, Paris and Tokyo, in exactly the same manner as any other country. Equally significant is the fact that the British Government has appointed a High Commissioner to Canada, while Canada maintains a High Commissioner in London.

But Canada is thus recognized as a nation; it is the only nation in the whole world which has no nationality of its own, and no distinctive flag of its own. These are anomalies which other people find it extremely difficult to understand.

In England, people born in that country are recognized and officially listed as English. If one is in Scotland, they are listed as Scottish; in Ireland, as Irish; in New Zealand, as New Zealanders; in Germany, in the United States, as American. But in Canada, on the other hand, a person may be listed as of any nationality under the sun except Canadian. Officially, there is no such person as a Canadian.

The writer of this article was born in Canada, a western farmer, and mothered in England. His parents, his wife and his son, all three of them, were born in England; their ancestors having crossed to the Emerald Isle from Scotland.

So the writer becomes, in Canada, an Irishman, although neither he nor his parents ever saw Ireland. It is his grandfather who had been born in Spain, then the writer would be a Spaniard.

In the face of such an anomaly, such a ghastly absurdity, it is little wonder that the people of other countries laugh in the face of any person born in Canada who is bold enough to lay claim to his country being a nation.

Every nation in the world, except one, has a distinctive flag of its own. The exception is Canada. Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Newfoundland, the Irish Free State, all have flags. So do the United States, as well as the Union Jack, the flag of all of Great Britain and the Empire. Canada has been decreed that this shipping flag shall be flown over Canadian Government buildings in the British Isles, and in foreign lands, but it is not allowed to fly over Canadian ships.

Thus, while a Canadian may fly a distinctive Canadian flag over a ship owned by him, he may not fly it over his office building or his residence, and while such a flag may be flown over a Canadian Government building in London, Washington, Paris, or Tokyo, it cannot be flown over a Canadian Government building in Halifax or Vancouver, or anywhere between the two places.

A person born in Canada is, therefore, that peculiar individual among the peoples of the world who has no nationality he can call his own, and no distinctive flag that he can properly fly in his own land and over his own home and public institutions.

And yet the people of Canada find pride in calling Canada a nation. Why? This is because Canada has not even the right to amend its own constitution, a power possessed by other self-governing dominions of the British Commonwealth.

Canada is, and is proud to be, and desires to remain, a part of the British Commonwealth of Nations. It is proud of and loyal to the Union Jack as the symbol of that Commonwealth. Just as the Dominion is the coat of arms, so is each Province its own coat of arms, and each city its arms, so do the people of Canada desire to establish and retain their own nationality, their own distinctive flag, and to enjoy full autonomy in their domestic affairs.

And yet the people of Canada find pride in calling Canada a nation. Why? This is because Canada has not even the right to amend its own constitution, a power possessed by other self-governing dominions of the British Commonwealth.

If Canada is a nation, let it display the qualities and the insignia of a nation.

Felt Out Of Plane But Fortunately Had Parachute

Arthur Center, automobile dealer and student aviator, of Springfield, Mass., experienced an unexpected thrill when he fell out of his "plane" flying 1,800 feet over Springfield.

Center, who was flying without a safety belt, but who had a parachute, pulled the cord of his parachute and made a landing unharmed. The "plane" fell in an open field and was demolished.

Reconstructing a Liner

Tinber From Many Countries Used On Palatial Steamer

Timber of many forests in many countries has been used for reconstruction and redecoration during the past year on the White Star liner "Majestic," which recently left Southampton for New York on her one hundredth west-bound crossing. The varieties of wood used are mahogany, teak, oak, ash, salsifywood, pine, Oregon yellow and pitch pine, cedar. Forty-four tons of paint was used on interior and exterior work, while 18,000 yards of electric wire was used in wiring electric bells and electric lights in cabins of tourist class accommodation.

Women Are Excluded

In the ironclad society of a woman, no woman has ever been admitted to the Kaiser's Krupp plant except the former kaiserin. The regulation was laid down by Frau Margaretha Krupp, for years chief director, and continued in force by her daughter, the present owner, Frau Bertha Krupp Von Bohlen and Halbach.

Five hundred years before the birth of Christ, Hippocrates, a Greek, wrote a book on medical science which is still studied by students in America and Europe.

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night club, wins fame on Broadway as a composer of popular songs. His girl, Molly Winton, a ballad singer, and makes her famous, too. Molly and Al have a son, John, whom they adore. Molly becomes romantically interested in John Ferry, Al's close friend, and falls in love with him. On the third anniversary of his marriage, Al takes Molly home to meet the Canadian part owner. She is moody; her conscience pained her because of her behaviour. John Ferry, who has been tattered when Al goes to the nursery and she sees how ardently he loves John, is angry. Molly's rage, she tells Al she doesn't love him any more. As Al recites, Molly hears Junior calling her.

CHAPTER XIV.

Junior had awakened to find that his toy, a woolly dog, had dropped out of bed. So he was calling to Molly to come and get it for him. As his high childlike voice drifted through the rooms to Molly and Al they gave a start. This expression of Al's in defense of his infant, Molly's remained the same as she brushed by Al to look after Junior.

Al turned, looking after her retreating figure, until a daze forced his lips to move. He had lost love, she actually said so herself! Her words and the heart-breaking scene he had just passed through seemed fantastic and unreal to him. What had he done to deserve her indifference? To her?

Then, like a man in a dream, he followed her toward the nursery. Standing in the doorway, he saw her pick up the woolly dog from the floor. She placed it in the child's arms, and carefully tucked him in.

"Go to sleep, now, Junior. Then Mamma can sleep too."

How strangely contrasting was that scene with the one to follow! Molly had just used addressing Al! And how kind the expression on Molly's profile as she bent over Junior's bed! Surely this was not the end, thought Al. He suddenly determined that he would let their life together be blighted by whom; he would fight to reawaken Molly's love!

As Molly came toward him, he raised his hand with an apologetic gesture. "Darling, we can't talk this out!"

"No—no more talk!" Molly passed him entering her bedroom. He hid her door close with a sign of inferiority.

But now Junior was sitting up, holding out his arms to his father. "Daddy, help me to sleep."

Al came forward slowly, pushing up Junior's shoulders so that, as if to drive away the wooly that had inflicted. Here, at any rate, was someone who loved him, trusted him, and always greeted him with the same adoring, happy smile.

For a moment Al choked up, and couldn't speak. Then he said huskily, with the true spirit of shadow midnight approached. Long strings of confetti in brilliant red, green, blue, yellow and purple were shot across the room, dressing graceful curves before they reached the dancing tables and the bigger of the dancers. It was the biggest crowd the Bombo had ever entertained and on the raised orchestra platform Al was playing a fantasia hand-piece, a mazurka in his hands. He was leading the movement, but the ache in his heart was still present.

He was a thought, the unstrung gaily of Molly's mood as she would become her old, friend. He gave a hurried glance toward her reserved table; she should be here by now. And he was right. She had arrived, the time when fears and misunderstandings are forgotten, new resolutions are made and life begins again.

The song continued. Junior had dropped in drowsiness and presently his eyes closed. When Al knew that was the case, he stopped the rhythmic steps trained on a waltz and silence. Then, pressing him tightly against close to him for a last good-night hug, he put his son back in the bed.

Answering more the tip-teasing from the room. Then Al stopped and gazed wonderingly at Molly's closed door. She was still up; the semi-darkness of the hallway he could see a faint narrow line of light under the door!

Perhaps she was already repeating of her quick, unkempt words—how passionately he wished that could be true! Her pride wouldn't let her make him know, now, perhaps in the morning.

Until the long black hours of the night faded into the gray dawn Al sat up in bed, gazing out over the lights of the city, smoking one cigarette after another, wondering, hoping, planning.

In the morning Molly's manner was still cold, but her whip-lash tongue was silent. She avoided meeting his eyes and when she spoke again he could not understand, for the child had just come in again, causing Junior and the household. Al watched her, hoping to detect a softening glow in those icy eyes, but there was no sign of relenting. Finally he left the apartment, closed the door shut again and said:

"Molly, dearest, I've been holding your table for you—hoping you'll come to me."

But again the door flew open and he missed the answer.

Intends To Collect Pay

Circus Winter Quarter Insects Return But Wants Little Money

A 21-year-old $5-a-week water carrier for a circus playing in Portland, remained at his post under the white top and refused to leave to collect a $275,000 inheritance available in Los Angeles, because he, despite the fact that the circus owns him $90 "hold back" money, which he won't get leaves.

The youth, Robert Sterling, of Englewood, said he had been employed with the circus since it reached Los Angeles, where he would answer personally the telegram received from an attorney informing him of the inheritance left by his father.

Sterling, a member of the Radio Corporation of America, had organized his father's opera radio studio in Philadelphia and purchased a few shares of stock the corporation.

When the elder Sterling died in 1927, his son was the sole heir to the estate of a Los Angeles attorney until he became 21 years old on July 1. When he was 20, he said he was so "busy" fulfilling the cook house ice tank with water," that he paid little attention to the attorney's notice.

It is the eighth big night in the city's history of revelry, snow blanketed the streets, embellishing the roofs and facades of the houses and skyscrapers, emphasizing the dazzling fantasy of brilliant Broadway.

At the moment, however, the cause of the winter quarter was his most modest adherents. The crowd in evening dress wore such carnival hats and danced

Says Vancouver Best Outlet

Nothing in Way of Branch Lines
For Peace River District
Declares Beatty

"When rail connection is established between the Peace River District and the Pacific coast, it will appear that Vancouver would be the logical point for the outlet on the coast," declared E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who was returning to Vancouver yesterday from Victoria.

Mr. Beatty was non-committal as to when and how rail connection between the coast and the Peace River should be made. He suggested that the connection should be the natural consequence of developments in the Peace area, and intimated that it might not be advisable to undertake the great expenditure in the period when Canada had made no financial headway.

According to the Pacific Great Eastern Railway situation, Mr. Beatty said that it would be time enough to discuss that matter when the surrounding country was well developed, and that the way to do it would be to have the Canadian government, the Canadian Pacific, and the Canadian National all completed, and that the directors of the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National will likely have some announcement to make at the end of the year.

Answering a direct question as to whether or not he expected the arrival of a branch of this road being run into British Columbia block of the Peace River area in order to give relief to farmers now located from 90 to 100 miles from the railroad, Mr. Beatty said that he saw no reason why it could not be done.

The orchestra was playing with staccato briskness and abandon, the couples swayed and snuggled and called to each other.

"Is this a partner's dance?" cried a friend in passing, clapping Al on the shoulder. Al laughed in answer, but a moment later he moved to the piano room in the rear, perhaps Molly had gone and was coming from the theatre—he must find out!

The phone room was a sort of alcove, with three or four windows. Al entered, closing the door shut, calling his apartment number—and the door suddenly opened, allowing a roar of happy sounds to enter. Just then he heard a feminine voice at the other end of the wire. Molly's voice, he thought. He picked up the phone and said:

"Molly, dearest, I've been holding your table for you—hoping you'll come to me."

But again the door flew open and he missed the answer.

The RESPONSIBILITY OF EVERY MOTHER

Strange Aerial Cargoes

Airplanes Are Now Used To Carry Every Kind Of Shipment

Eighty tons of milk are being carried from Vancouver by aeroplanes between London and the Continent, says a Tit-Bits writer.

Recently a consignment of sea-ponies was transported by an aeroplane at Croydon, England, via pavilions on the fantastical creatures, half horse and half dragon, which were caught in the Bay of Biscay, and throughout the flight was pursued by aerial gunners tanks at ten-minute intervals.

Dedicate goldfish are often transported in this manner, but the most valuable fish cargo by air was a large specimen of very rare, and highly valued, the East Indian some of which were valued at $150 per inch.

A harped cage was recently built for the transportation of an aeroplane which left Croydon for Boulogne where it placed upon a fully equipped complete with trailer, and brought them back at over 100 miles an hour.

Another special compartment was designed to accommodate animals arising in the digestive tract—the bones have come clogged and the stomach sour. Some of the patients are given failing relief for this complaint. They are a mild but thorough laxative and are given to them by the doctor. At just such times as when it is necessary that Baby's Own Tablets be taken, the help and friends.

Twenty years ago it would have been impossible to build a road to the site of the new observatory on Mount Blanc. The aeroplane has now made it possible to transport stones and materials to a height of over 13,000 feet on the mountain side; but when the road is completed it will be one of the most expensive and most strange that milk, easily obtainable in all great cities, should be carried by air, but mysterious zinc-lined boxes were once regularly carried from Croydon to Paris and these contained two gallons of milk in glass bottles, packed in ice.

The American visitors to whom the boxes were addressed had been so impressed with the purity of English milk that they cheerfully paid a stiff price to have it delivered to them in Paris!

Wounds Change Denomination

A party of clergymen were attending a Freedmen's conference in Standard, Georgia, when one set off to explore the district.

Presently they came to a river spanned by a temporary bridge. Not observing a notice that the bridge was unsafe, they started to cross it. The bridge keeper ran after them in protest.

"It's all right," declared the spokesman, not understanding the reason for the man's haste. We're Presbyterians from the conference."

"In 'no' case about that," was the reply, "but if ye dinna get off the bridge ye'll all be Baptists!"

"He will be very gracious unto every soul of the voice of thy Christ."—Isaiah xxix, 19.

Father! before Thy footstool kneeling, more my heart goes up to Thee;

For aid, for strength, to Thee appeal; Thou who alone canst succor me.

And oh! in my exceeding weakness, Make Thy strength perfect; Thou art to me to do Thy will with meekness.

These to whom all my powers belong.

There is no good in praying for anything, but we also will also try for it. All the signs and implications in the world will bring us to the heart that fills itself with folly every day, or mercy to the soul that finds itself in sin, or usefulness and honor to the life that wastes itself in vanity and inability.

Opinion Wasn't Worth Much

It is told of a popular solicitor who came upon a man in a suit and opinion upon a certain point of law. The lawyer to whom the question was addressed drew himself up and observed: "I am a solicitor, not a monkey and a connoisseur of law."

Twenty years ago it would have been impossible to build a road to the site of the new observatory on Mount Blanc. Uncompromised Women Are Refused Service in Many Cafes

Numerous cafes in Paris still refuse to serve uncompromised women and the reason is that they talk to the men at the removal of the ban. They argue that times have changed and that women should be catered to even when alone. The fact seems to be that a woman's voice to the water nowadays women go unaccompanied to theatres, cafes, hotels and all other public places, and the fact of their being alone is unobserved.

Obituary

Mrs. Chris Zahnd.

General regret was felt on Wednesday of last week when the passing of Mrs. Chris Zahnd became known.

The deceased lady, who was an enthusiastic Institute worker, had been ill for five months, and had borne her affliction with fortitude. She went to Iowa, U.S.A., from Germany, as a seven year old girl, subsequently removed to Nebraska, and arrived in Canada in 1900. Before her marriage to Mr. Zahnd, which took place in 1889, her name was Miss Ida Toman, and she was 53 years of age at the time of her death.

Besides her husband she leaves three children, Mrs. Otto Hugo Champion; Mrs. John Jensen, Vulcan, and Neil Zahnd. The funeral took place from the United Church, Vulcan, on Friday, September 27th, and was largely attended. Many beautiful flowers testified to respect and affection for the deceased. Rev. J. N. Brunton conducted the ceremonies, and bearers were Messrs. D. H. Galbraith, George Galbraith, F. Galloway, Gus Jensen, Wm. Bowie and Earle Mills.

Interment took place in Vulcan cemetery.—Vulcan Advocate.

With the smallpox confined to the one family and quarantine being now practically over, public meetings have been resumed and things have a more normal aspect, the picture show being specially welcomed on its return.

K. R. McLean, eyeglass specialist, was in town at the Drug Store on Friday last on his regular monthly trip.

Messrs. Steele and Buchanan of the Lethbridge Herald were in town on Friday in connection with advancing Herald interests here.

Champion now has a cash store. The Joplings having decided on this innovation, beginning Oct. 1.

The community hall in its new coat of stucco is being generally admired. It is certainly a handsome building and an outstanding credit to everyone concerned in its erection.

M. A. McNaughton, who has spent the fall here looking after his farm interests, left this week for his home at Wasaia, New York. Many friends here enjoy his annual visit.
